FAIRFIELD UNIVERSITY

THE MANOR
VOL. 40

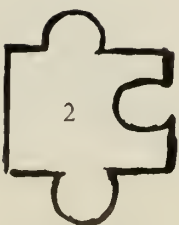

WELCOME!

Welcome to the pages of the 1990 Manor Yearbook. Have you ever seen the movie "Manhattan"? Well, this is our tribute to the great escape and education that we called Fairfield University. The moments we captured here in black and white were done with the help of our very small and very dedicated staff. We believe that our book would be an artistic statement in the world of the yearbook molds.

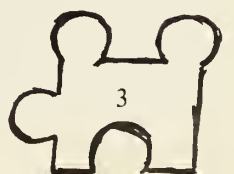

If you don't know, my name is Sean "Dogger" Flynn and that's my mug at the top of the page. I'm Editor-In-Chief of this lovely piece of paperwork and Katie Belcher and Ann Marie MacMahon are my right and left hands. Vin Cervoni was in charge of this lovely photography. Isn't it all so lovely? Through all the pictures we thumbed through, these are our favorites and we think they sum up the Fairfield Experience. We enjoyed working on this book and look forward to hearing from you. This is, after all, your book.

This is Fairfield.

Hope you enjoy the ride.

Arriving to campus, you observe a large stone building and in it a room with a single window that doesn't even open all the way. Now you meet the stranger who will see you stressed, undressed, and even "under the weather". You'll go to your first class and then probably to your first party. Maybe not even in that order. You'll stress through your first test and breeze through papers and quizzes like it was high school again. Then before you know, there is a big weekend called Harvest and you try to get a date and tickets like your life depends on it. As quickly as one vacation is over, finals begin and Christmas is the only thing keeping you sane. That, and maybe a Stag home opener thrown in. You get back to the old workbench only to be asked an infinite number of times, "How was your break?". Suddenly, all the work seems to appear as Spring Break comes and goes. You learn everyone is Irish on St. Patrick's Day and it pays. Then you wonder why would anyone celebrate a weekend for a tree. Dogwood Weekend is just our last hurray before finals take over our minds. Remarkably, this happens four years in a row. Even scientists can't explain it. Suddenly, when this rut seems to be permanent, the School says it's Senior Week and time to graduate. Imagine that.

PEOPLE

DEDICATION

The 1990 Manor yearbook is dedicated to a woman who has served this University to her utmost ability. Jeanne DiMuzio has served as the Fairfield University Judicial Officer and Orientation Director since 1982. Most recently, she has been chosen Assistant Director of University Activities. Jeanne has always been very helpful to the Yearbook staff and always greets you with a smile. The entire student body can probably say they have been a better person for it. She exemplifies the ideal relationship between student and administrator. I have known Jeanne since my sophomore year and she has been an inspiration for me here at Fairfield. Even at the dedication ceremony at Senior Brunch, she showed her modest and true nature as she thanked all her friends and students. Thanks, Jeanne, from all of us whom you have touched.

Building up the Jesuit ideals . . .

The Egan Chapel of St. Ignatius of Loyola began construction this year and is scheduled to be complete in October of 1990. The chapel structure began with a skeleton of concrete and steel between the library and Campus Center. The new chapel will be the major focal point of the Campus Ministry team as it gets ready to celebrate the Ignatian Year the following semester. Headed by Fr. Paul Carrier, the Campus Ministry team has reached new heights this year with its mission drive and IRHG benefit dance providing students with the opportunity to help in Central America this summer. We await the opening of the chapel with great anticipation and wish the Campus Ministry team more success in their pursuit of the Jesuit tradition.

FUSA

STUDENT GOVERNMENT

FUSA experienced major changes this year when FUSA president Warren DiDonato relinquished his position after only one semester on the job. Legislature president Tom Pelligrino assumed the presidency and highlights of the year include the Melissa Etheridge/Indigo Girl concert, as well as a student protest of University policy to incorporate freshman dorms on campus as part of the Freshman Experience.

In this April's ceremony at Belarmine Hall, FUSA '89 ended its reign and FUSA '90 began headed by Christopher McSherry and his "cracked" staff of FUSA-ites. McSherry's touching speech marked a night of new responsibilities and new outlooks for the coming year.

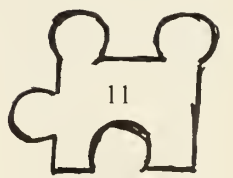

COME JOIN THE CAMPUS CENTER FUN!

Campus life has always been an important part of the Fairfield University social scene. This year brought the Dating Game, Simon Sez and caricaturist Neil Portnoy to the lunchtime lobby forefront. Also, FUSA comedy nights were a big success. They highlighted the talents of Wally Colins, Spanky and Jimmy Tingle, just to name a few. So, if you have a free night, why not check out the Stag-Her. It might just surprise you.

One of the most active and talented clubs on campus, the Glee Club is composed of a diverse group of students who are able to place the academic rigors of the university aside in order to take part in something they truly enjoy. Performing for both the university community and many locations on the east coast, they have been able to illustrate their talents while performing a myriad display of music. 1990 even took them to Italy!

ORIENTATION '89

The class of 1993 was certainly in "The Pursuit of Excellence" as they were greeted by an enthusiastic junior class. As tradition holds, the class of 1991 plans and works the orientation for the incoming freshman class. This includes the happy cheerleaders waiving to cars as they enter the university, the "drivers" escorting the family car to the dorm and unloading the new arrivals belongings, as well as giving the freshman and his or her parents a stunning tour of the campus and rooms. After all the hustle and bustle of the unloading, the freshman enjoy the evenings programs provided by the orientation staff. Three days of meetings, unpacking, learning to "enjoy" Seiler's, and making new friends culminates with the "Welcome Back" party with Barbequed food and music on the Oak Room green.

Wow! What a way to welcome in four years of more fun! All brought to you by the Class of 1991 and the Director of orientation, Mrs. Jeanne Dimuzio. Almost makes me wish I were a freshman again. Well, almost....

Suzanne Podurgiel and Chris McSherry serve as the co-chairs for Orientation.

190 NIGHTS

Memories of the night at Pinecrest are perhaps few and far between. But a bizarre variety of images remains: pre-party cocktails, school bus ride to "undisclosed" location, dinner for those capable of eating, cheap ties/expensive dresses, wild and crazy dresses, wild and crazy dancers, liquid dance floor where swimming was allowed, questionable mixed drinks, women in the men's room, unending flow of alcohol (if you could only get to the bar), surviving the ride back to Fairfield, an experience nobody will ever forget.

Smile! You're on Candid Camera!

Those crazy Seniors will do it to you every time. They try to be the respectable college students and . . .

Who am I kidding?

This is the year to kick off your shoes and celebrate three years of back-breaking academics and enjoy friendships that will last a lifetime. If the school year and 90/190 nights weren't enough, Senior Week made them all look sedate. It's not all fun and games though.

This marks the beginning of all new lives, either at Grad School or some enormous company just trying to survive.

Then again, we are Fairfield students. Why not just live a little.

As a junior, I have learned that there are certain questions you simply do not ask a senior. These questions consist of "Do you know what you are going to do with your degree?" and "Are you excited about graduation?" After hanging around with my senior friends, I began to understand why they hated these questions. It's hard to talk about where you are going without grasping for some sort of security. As time went on, even I began to loathe these questions, because it forced me to realize that I too would be losing something very special on May 20, 1990. I would be losing some of the best friends that I ever had.

My friends never made any effort to impress me with their appearance or attitude. Nor did I. We had reached an understanding. We took each other for face value and loved every minute of the time we spent together.

Nicknames became an important part of our relationship. We all had one. I'll never forget the late night games of Pictionary, Questions, and Quarters with Dad, Goombah, Misseyfish, Nora Corra, the Petite Woman, and of course the classic cheater Tom "College" Corra. These were only a few of the activities that we could partake in. No matter what we did, you could always count on Timmy-Dick and the most bodacious Pipa Poon to raise even the lowest of spirits.

Sometimes I think that when everyone graduates, I'll be left alone, having learned nothing. But then I realize that I did gain something from those midnight talks with Mahatma Zieg and long distance parties at TH122. I learned how to truly care about a great bunch of people, that left me with plenty of happy memories. I wish all of you seniors the best of luck in the future and thanks for those memories.....

MEN'S BASKETBALL

At the start of the 1989-90 season, the Stags looked as if they would finish near the top of the MAAC Conference. Most of the games were decided by a three to seven point margin. Unfortunately, more than half of the decisions were not in the Stags favor.

The bright spot for the team proved to be its tenacious defense which was one of the nations best. The Stags opponents were able to shoot only 41.6% from the field, an average which placed the team in the top 15 in the country in defense.

CATCH

THE STAG FEVER!

The 1989-90 season for the Fairfield Lady Stags basketball team was, despite the team's semifinal loss to Holy Cross in the Metro Atlantic Athletic Conference (MAAC) tournament, an overwhelming success. Coach Dianne Nolan was named "Coach of the Year" by her peers in the MAAC, and deservedly so. After all, the Lady Stags won their first ever regular season MAAC title and chalked up 20 plus wins for the second time in the program's history; a marked improvement from the 1988-89 season-ending ledger of 11-17. The final record of 21-8 is even more impressive considering seven of the eight losses came at the hands of opponents with 20 or more wins.

The new season meant a new game plan for the Lady Stags. Averaging over 19 turnovers per game, and dropping seven games by seven points or less in last year's campaign. Nolan had the team running and gunning offensively and forcing the opponent to adopt that style. The players worked hard in the off season and came back as, arguably, the best conditioned squad in the conference.

Leading the effort for Fairfield were first team All-MAAC selections Lisa Mikelic and co-captain Tricia Sacca. These two juniors both eclipsed the career 1,000 point mark during the season and were named to all-tourney teams for their outstanding contributions. Senior co-captain Kathy Gallor finished her four-year career with class, finishing third on the team in scoring average.

Making their presence felt in the front court were senior Taby Brickhouse, junior Shanna Lewis, sophomores Trish Elser and Kelley Sheehan, and freshman Aimee Auerbeck. Whether thrust into the role of starter or reserve, this talented group used their average height of over 6'

WOMEN'S HOOP 89-90

0" to compliment the play of the smaller forwards and guards. At the point guard Nolan relied on youth for success — and found it. Sophomores Lynne Friel and Sue Bly platooned, and senior Renita Pritchett provided experience in the stretch run. Freshman swing player Katie Abromovitch became a scoring threat off the bench, giving the coaching staff flexibility.

As the number one seed in the conference tournament, Fairfield met La Salle in the first round. The Lady Explorers were the host for the 1990 event, and therefore, had the luxury of playing on their homecourt. Behind Saeca's 19 points and 19 rebounds, Fairfield won by seven. In the semifinal match-up against Holy Cross, Elser scored 19 points to lead the Lady Stags for the third time in five games, but it was not enough as Holy Cross took the victory by a 86-83 score.

It did not take long for the accolades to roll in at season's end. In addition to being named MAAC "Coach of the Year", Nolan was selected to the coaching staff at the U.S. Olympic Festival and was named to the post of secretary of the Women's Basketball Coaches Association. Mikelie and Saeca were named to the All-MAAC first team. Seniors Kathy Gallor, Renitta Pritchett, Tabith Brickhouse and coaching assistant Barbara Robb will maintain Nolan's 100% graduation rate when they receive their degrees in May of 1990.

During the November signing period, the Lady Stags coaching staff received a commitment from Katie Walhelm, a 6'0" forward from Bala Cynwyd, PA. Walhelm is expected to help the Lady Stags continue their success as one of the top programs in the East.

ICE HOCKEY

When the 1989-90 hockey season was about to begin last November, veteran head coach Dr. John McCarthy knew he had a very young team, but he also knew he had some talent and potential.

Perhaps, he thought, the team could split its games and finish with a record in the .500 range. That would be a pretty good jump from a team that had a 5-21 record the previous season.

While the Stags came up a few wins short of the break even mark, finishing at 9-12-2, Coach McCarthy liked what he saw and likes what he sees for next year even better.

"This was our best team in a long time", said McCarthy. "Going into the last week of the season, we had a legitimate shot at making the (ECAC) playoffs". A tournament the Stags have yet to qualify for.

If not for a six-game losing streak that started in late January, the Stags might have been able to gain one of those tournament spots. A split of a two-game series at Southern Maine, a 3-2 win followed by a 4-2 loss, left the Stags with a 7-6-2 record. But a 4-3 loss at Wesleyan, when the Stags had a goal in the final few minutes disallowed on a call that could reasonably be questioned, was followed by losses to Trinity, Villanova, Fitchburg State and Quinnipiac and Fairfield was down to 7-11-2.

"We played some good games in there", said McCarthy, "but we just had a lot of trouble putting the puck in the net."

Still, the Stags managed to regroup to win two of their last three games, including an 8-4 offensive explosion in a win over Scranton in the season finale.

Bob MacDonald, a junior from Westwood, MA., finished as the team's leading scorer netting 13 goals while racking up 20 assists for 33 points in centering the first line.

The 1989-90 season was a positive one and with nearly the entire squad back for next year, expectations are high.

"With the maturing of players that we have, and some good recruits, the goals we have (a .500 season and a playoff spot) should come to fruition. That will be the goal we set with the players next year," said Coach McCarthy.

FIELD HOCKEY

Anita D'Ascenzo, in her first season as head coach, was overly pleased with the competitiveness of her Lady Stags, despite their 2-10-1 record. This year was an improvement over last season in which the Lady Stags registered just one victory.

Freshman goalie Danielle Roux (Oarmouth, ME), posted three shutouts as she played in goal for the entire thirteen game season. Junior May Donder (Myfield, MA), scored three goals and senior co- captain Maureen Mooney (Radnor, PA), had two goals and one assist to pace the Lady Stags.

Freshman Mary Beth Combs (East Lyme, CT), was third in scoring for the Lady Stags with two goals and one assist. With 13 players slated to return and the addition of a few talented rookies, it should allow D'Ascenzo to build on an improving field hockey program. The Lady Stags will lose just two to graduation paving the way for a much more experienced team in 1990.

MEN'S SWIMMING

The men's swim team, under the guidance of rookie head coach Alan Wachs, struggled to a 1-11 finish this winter. The combination of a new coaching philosophy and a relatively young team played a major part in their lack of success in the win column. Encouraging was the fact that every swimmer improved his personal best time by season's end. Fairfield was led by a pair of juniors, Jose Fajardo (Jersey City, NJ) and Jim Turney (Union, NJ), while a pair of freshman, Shawn Keegan (Bollston Lake, NY) and Broegan Vazquez-Gil (Spain), were impressive in the diving events.

Fairfield's lone victory was over Connecticut College (123-68). In the Metropolitan Relays the Stags finished 8th and in the MAAC Championships finished 7th in front of Niagara, St. Peter's and Canisius.

With the entire team improving on their times coupled with just one swimmer being lost to graduation, the Stags have a strong nucleus returning for the 1990-91 season.

WOMEN'S SWIMMING

The women's swim team fared well this winter adjusting to a new coaching style and a young team. Of the 23 members on the roster just five were from the junior and senior classes. The Lady Stags recorded their third consecutive winning season as they finished the 1989-90 slate at 6-4.

After starting out the season at 1-3, the Lady Stags stormed back to win five of their final six meets. The most impressive win came against Marist College (183-107). Then to close out the season Fairfield defeated Trinity (137-103) as they headed into the MAAC Championships.

Fairfield finished with 137 points in the MAAC Championship, placing them in 6th in front of Niagara, Iona, St. Peter's and Manhattan.

The Lady Stags were paced by a sophomore, Kathleen Bannan (Pensacola, FL) and two juniors, Joan Laux (Cherry Hill) and Kate Heller (Rye, NY).

Diving coach and former diver Leslie Aquavia '88 got solid performances from Erin O'Brien (Watertown, CT), Kelly Molkenthin (Norwich, CT), and Alisa Marini (Schenectady, NY).

THE 1990 MANOR STAFF (?)

Yearbook staffs typically publish a page of staff candids; it is an arrogant but self-fulfilling practice. This year the staff was the smallest that it has been in years. There were only five true members who stuck with the organization through thick and thin (and believe me it was often a test of will). These five were Vincent Cervoni, Katie Belcher, Annmarie McMahon, Kim Cutaio, and the infamous Sean Flynn. I feel that since there were so few of us, time should be taken to describe the work of each one. Vin was the Faithful photography editor who often had to cover every campus event himself. He did a great job for a senior with so many other obligations; therefore, time should be taken to give him extra thanks. THANKS VIN! Next are Annmarie and Kim who contributed by doing any odd job that needed to be done. Katie was the associate editor who worked as Sean's right hand. Both Sean and Katie were active in at least two or three other clubs, and still managed to design a yearbook, which can be considered as close to a full-time job as one can come. Sean will finish the book, over the summer. We would like to thank all of those that participated; it was a long road but here it is!

THANKS EVERYONE!!!

AND FINALLY ...

A POETIC FAREWELL

— By Richard Belcher

WHO'D HAVE THOUGHT WHEN THEY UNPACKED OUR CAR,
THAT WE WOULD EVER GET THIS FAR.
BUT SENIOR YEAR COMES SUPER FAST,
AND SOON OUR FAIRFIELD YEARS ARE PAST.
BUT WE GET TO KEEP THE MEMORIES,
AND THIS YEARBOOK WE HOPE WILL PLEASE.
ALTHOUGH MOST OF US WOULD LIKE TO STAY,
EACH ONE GOES HIS SEPARATE WAY.

GOOD LUCK TO
THE CLASS OF 1990
